

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. They have a duty to only air substantive claims censored by journalistic integrity. Any investigative piece about Kerry should be balanced by a similar toned expose on the President

You must take action to maintain the fairness doctrine which has been the cornerstone of American media.
